Answer the following questions to determine your eligibility for life stages cover

1. Are you applying within 60 days from when the life event occurred?
 Yes No
2. I have never made, lodged, or been eligible to lodge a claim under any life insurance policy
 Yes No
3. Are you 'At Work'?
 Yes No
3. Are you 'At Work'?
 Yes No

At work

At Work means on the date of signing this form you are:

- Actively performing all of your normal duties, without limitation or restriction due to injury or sickness, and working normal hours on the day this additional cover is to commence; and
- In the insurer's opinion, not restricted by injury or sickness from being capable of actively performing all of your normal duties on a full-time basis for at least 35 hours per week even though actual employment may be on a full-time, part-time, casual, or contract basis; and
- Not in receipt of, or entitled to claim, any income support benefits from any source including but not limited to workers' compensation benefits, statutory transport accident benefits or disability income benefits.

You will be considered to be At Work if, you are on employer approved leave for reasons other than injury or sickness, and not taking into account the leave, able to meet the At Work requirement.

If you're not working, but have been working previously (eg you're a qualified builder and currently unemployed but between jobs), the insurer will assess your At Work status by your capability of performing, for at least 35 hours per week, the duties that you normally complete in your role or previous occupation immediately prior to unemployment.

Declaration and agreement

Duty of disclosure

Before you become covered by the insurer, you need to disclose to the insurer anything that you know, or could reasonably be expected to know, may affect the insurer's decision to insure you and on what terms. You also need to do so before you extend, vary or reinstate your insurance cover. You owe the insurer a statutory duty of disclosure under the Insurance Contracts Act 1984 (Cth). If you fail to disclose these things to the insurer, this may be treated as a failure to comply with this statutory duty. The insurer may then have the rights described below. You do not need to tell the insurer anything that reduces the insurer's risk, is common knowledge, the insurer knows or should know as an insurer, or the insurer waives your duty to tell it about.

The insurer has a number of rights in the event of non-disclosure. In exercising these rights, the insurer may consider whether different types of cover can constitute separate contracts of life insurance. If they do, the insurer may apply the following rights separately to each type of cover. The rights are as follows:

- If you do not tell the insurer anything you are required to, and the insurer would not have provided the insurance if you had told them, the insurer may avoid the contract within 3 years of entering into it.
- If the insurer chooses not to avoid the contract, the insurer may, at any time, reduce the amount of insurance provided. This would be worked out using a formula that takes into account the premium that would have been payable if you had told the insurer everything you should have. However, if the contract provides cover on death, the insurer may only exercise this right within 3 years of entering into the contract.
- If the insurer chooses not to avoid the contract or reduce the amount of insurance provided, the insurer may, at any time vary the contract in a way that places the insurer in the same position they would have been in if you had told the insurer everything you should have. However, this right does not apply if the contract provides cover on death.
- If the failure to tell the insurer is fraudulent, the insurer may refuse to pay a claim and treat the contract as if it never existed.

Economic or trade sanctions

If you have a trade or economic sanction placed against you then you will not be eligible for insurance cover and would not be paid out on any claim received on or after that date. The insurer could be exposed to penalties or restrictions if cover was provided to a sanctioned person.
